Poultry Show
Closes After A Most Successful Meeting.

The Madison County Poultry Show came to a close Saturday evening after four days' successful meet. It is, indeed, gratifying to know that the efforts of those most interested in the exhibition have been rewarded by the grand success of the undertaking. Hundreds of the finest fowls in the State of Kentucky were here to compete for the attractive premiums that were hung up by the officers of the association, and it is especially pleasing to know that Madison county carried off a majority of the awards. Few of our citizens realized the interest taken in this county in the best breeds of poultry, but the exhibition and prizes won by our home people demonstrated the fact that the best stock in Kentucky is to be found in Madison. Not only was the show a success from a point of stock exhibited but from a financial standpoint, as the association met all obligations and had a surplus left. The Madison County Poultry Association will meet at an early date and elect officers for the ensuing year and will begin work at once on the poultry show which will be held in this city the first week in December next year.
